

About the Editor-in-Chief

Dr. Z.M. Khan is the Professor & Head of the Department of Political Science in Jamia Millia Islamia, New Delhi. He obtained his Masters from the University of Delhi and his Ph.D. degree from the School of International Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi. He is known for his scholarship and teaching ability. He has an experience of teaching in Jamia Millia Islamia, University of Delhi and Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi spreading over a period of more than three and a half decades. He has three books at his credit and a number of articles appeared in research journals. He is a widely travelled academic who has contributed papers in national and international conferences. His areas of interest include comparative politics, Indian Politics and Research Methodology.

Dr. Khan is associated with a number of research organizations. He serves in various capacities on a number of educational and research boards and committees. Presently, he is looking after the Journal of Objective Studies of the IOS, New Delhi in the capacity of the editor-in-chief. He is a recognized academic and researcher.