Nationally, this Lok Sabha, the 18th, has 24 Muslim MPs, or a mere 4.42 percent, while the community's proportion in the national electorate is more than 15 percent. In the 16th and 17th Lok Sabha, there were 22 and 27 Muslim MPs, respectively. This, however, isn't as big a surprise as it might seem from a first reading. Except 1980 and 1984 when Muslims won 49 and 45 seats, accounting for 9 and 8.3 percent, respectively, the percentage of Muslim MPs in the Lok Sabha has stayed around the 5-percent mark.
